Freedom to Be Flexible

Flexible Class Formats: Attend in-person, join live online, or participate asynchronously online on your own schedule.

Flexible Requirements: Pick from hundreds of classes to complete requirements in eight general education categories. There are opportunities to explore completely new topics, or fine tune knowledge in a specific area.

Flexible Specializations: With 33 minors and over 30 microcredential options, participants can specialize in a discipline or skill set.

Flexible Future: The Associate's Degrees in Liberal Arts are stackable to Bachelor degrees and transferable to any SUNY or US College.

Flexible Residency: Live on campus, take classes from home, or both!

Flexible Funding: As one of the most affordable colleges in New York State, work with our Office of Financial Aid to find a cost-effective degree path.

Why did I major in Liberal Arts at SUNY Canton?

"I chose to enroll in the Liberal Arts program because it provided a flexible pathway toward my long-term goal of becoming a certified teacher. At the time, I wanted a degree that would strengthen my academic skills while allowing me to continue working in education and prepare for graduate school."

– Murli Deochan

"Liberal Arts is the gateway to discovering what you are passionate about!"

– Kandy Pecore

"The Liberal arts program gave me a wide selection of online classes. There were so many to choose from. The online studies gave me the flexibility I needed and the instructors were wonderful!"

– Susan Higgins

Research & Internship Opportunities

At SUNY Canton, we know the value of applying learning outside of the classroom.

Engage in research with faculty mentors to explore topics, solving real world problems and enhancing critical thinking skills.

Mellinia (Mimi) Morrison-Perez of Monroe (photo above), conducted research with Liberal Arts Faculty and presented at the SUNY Undergraduate Research Conference (SURC).

Apply to internship opportunities through our Career Center to advance work-force experience and build professional networks.
